If we all comb together we can
'beat the bugs'

Nothing Else Works.

Quite like the Nitty Gritty NitFree Comb.

Current NHS guidelines recommend 'wet combing' as the preferred method of head lice eradication.

But if you don't get the eggs out, the infestation continues.

Only one head lice product is specially designed – and guaranteed – to get everything out. Including the eggs.

The Nitty Gritty NitFree Comb doesn't just remove head lice.

It quickly and easily extracts nits (the empty egg cases that remain glued to each hair strand after hatching), and even the unhatched 'live' eggs that other products leave behind.

And it works brilliantly with any ordinary hair conditioner, too... so there's no need for any nasty chemicals.

More and more healthcare professionals are prescribing the NitFree Comb. Because it gets the whole job done, and to protect a whole family all you need is one.

The Nitty Gritty NitFree Comb is listed in Section IX A of the NHS Drug Tariff in the Appliance section under sub-category: HEAD LICE DEVICE, NITTY GRITTY NITFREE STEEL NIT COMB WITH MICRO-GROOVED TEETH.

It is fully approved for prescription by GPs, Prescribing Health Visitors, Pharmacists, and Nurse Prescribers. Pediculosis [head lice] is one of the conditions listed for which Nurse Prescribers are allowed to prescribe, under the guidelines on Nurse Prescribing in Part XVII.
